High School Notes

Dorothy Feathers, Reporter

The Junior Class will give their annual reception to the Seniors at the E. B. Scott home, next Saturday night. The committee in charge has made great plans for the entertainment of their guests, and the reception is expected to be a grand success.

This year's basketball team was one of the best teams Campbell High has ever had. We again won the I. A. U. championship, which we have held ever since the league was organized. In the Peninsular league we did not do quite so well, as San Mateo kept us from the championship by defeating us 38-36. This left San Jose, Campbell, and Los Gatos tied for second place. The total scores amounted to 116 for Campbell and 124 for her opponents.

But we did not break our I. A. U. record. Our team defeated all its opponents by large scores, the total scores being Campbell, 266. Opponents, 98.

Three of the team graduate this year, but the two remaining players are good ones, and, with the help of the second team, should develop a winning team again next year. Don't forget that to Mr. Cramer, the coach, belongs much of the credit for the good showing of the team, for his tireless and skillful coaching counted a great deal.

R. K. Thomas is holding court these days at his home where one or two friends each day are permitted the pleasure of a call. Mr. Thomas is improving steadily and it is a great satisfaction to his friends and acquaintances to be able to say, "How do you do," again.

The Misses Mattie and Merna Sawyer are planning an extensive trip East this summer, going via the southern route and stopping at the larger cities to Washington, D. C. There they will visit Mrs. Goodnight, who was their guest this spring and whose father holds a government position there, then on to New York and Boston and returning to the Coast over the Canadian Pacific.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY SERVICES

Memorial Sunday was observed by a union vesper service held in the M. E. church. The decorations were very pretty, jars of Shasta daisies and red geraniums combining their colors most harmoniously with the National colors. Small flags designated the pews reserved for the veterans.

The choir, augmented by part of the Congregational choir sang "America," written in anthem form, which was very effective, and the sermon was delivered by Rev. G. E. Atkinson, the general thought being "The Battlefields of the World Have Been the Footsteps of Jehovah."

John E. Carter

Another old resident passed away suddenly, when John E. Carter, a resident of New Jersey avenue, dropped dead Saturday morning just as he left the house. He stopped to tell his wife to put up a lunch for him, and that was the last. Dr. W. I. Merrill was called, but said that death had undoubtedly been instantaneous.

Mr. Carter was born in Missouri, and was nearly seventy years of age. He had lived many years in this community, and his children have attended the Campbell High School.

The deceased leaves to mourn his departure, his wife, Margaret G. Carter; sons, Easton of Palo Alto, and Clifton of Campbell; daughter, Eleanor, also living at home; and a brother, C. M. Carter of Visalia.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Congregational church in charge of Rev. G. E. Atkinson. Mrs. Alex Adam and H. C. Smith sang, "Saved By Grace" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and at the cemetery, Mrs. A. I. Cramer joined them in "Rock Of Ages."

Messrs. E. La Montagne, F. E. Duncan, C. E. Hanger, F. Steindorf, E. I. Price, and G. Lovejoy of San Jose, acting as pall bearers, the body being laid to rest in Los Gatos cemetery.

Many sincere expressions of sympathy have been extended the bereaved family.

Yosemite Popular

Camp Curry, Yosemite Valley, May 27. More than seven times as many automobiles have passed the portals of the Yosemite this season as entered the Valley during a similar period last year. One hundred and ninety-seven cars have obtained park permits at the government checking station while the total number of permits issued last year previous to May 27 was 27. Cars are now coming in at the rate of twenty a day and Park Supervisor W. B. Lewis predicts that before June 1 the list will run well over three hundred.

Thirty cars have entered the Valley via the Coulterville road and the other hundred and sixty-seven have followed the Wawona route.

The Big Oak Flat road into the Valley will be officially opened on June 1. The road crew has cut through three-foot drifts of hard snow for distances aggregating half a mile, and the road has been put in good condition for automobile travel. However, it is expected that for some weeks most of the traffic will move via Wawona.

About June 5 a crew of twenty-five men will be set to work cutting the six-foot snow banks on the Tioga Pass road, and this route will be ready for automobiles about June 15.

I am as free as air.

I am yours if you will take me.

I am THRIFT.

The Young People's Branch of the W. C. T. U. held a meeting at Mrs. Whitman's, Saturday evening, May 27th and had a very delightful time. After the business meeting and study hour, Mrs. Whitman as president of the W. C. T. U. and Miss Caldwell welcomed the Y. P. B. with very appropriate talks. Refreshments were served and all went home well pleased with the delightful evening spent.

GATES TO BLACK SEA

IMPORTANT POINTS WHICH ARE MAKING HISTORY TODAY.

May Again Determine the Future of Europe, as They Have Done in Gigantic Conflicts of the Past.

With the northwestern battle theater of the Turks proclaimed by the war prophets as that where the deciding master strokes in this most titanic of all struggles are to be delivered, a sketch of this remarkable region's past prepared by Harry Griswold Dwight for the National Geographic society is of more than usual interest. Here the West won its self-confidence, and this confidence has borne fruits with splendid richness for longer than 2,000 years. Here the course of civilization has been changed and modified several times, and here again today the attention of the world is fixed in the belief that the future of Europe will once more be determined by events about to transpire. In the bulletin issued by the National Geographic society Mr. Dwight tells about The Gates to the Black Sea.

"There is something alluring in the very shape and position of these lakes—the Black sea and the Sea of Marmora—separating as they do the two most historic continents of our globe and communicating with each other and with the outer seas by openings that seem miraculous. And those landlocked waters have been from earliest times, as they happen again to be today, the theater of epic events. For us of the West no legends are older than those of Zeus and Io, of Phryxus and Helle, of the Trojan war, of Jason and the Argo, which commemorate the earliest voyages into the Great Lakes of the Levant.

"Of the two, the Marmora—the Propontis, if you prefer to be classical—is by far the smaller. Not much more than 100 miles long and some 40 miles across at its broadest part, it is about the same size as Lake Champlain. The Marmora has much of the softness of air, vividness of color and beauty of scenery that we associate with the Aegean and Ionian seas. Thread the narrow slit of the Bosphorus, however, and you pass into an entirely different world—sterner, barer, rockier, colder.

"If the Marmora may be compared to Lake Champlain, the Black sea is about four times the size of our greatest lake. Lake Superior is 412 miles long by 167 wide, while the Black sea has a length of 750 miles and a breadth of 385. That there is something dark and unfriendly about it is more than a legend.

Zeppelin Bombs.

There are many different kinds of bombs dropped from Zeppelins and aircraft. They are divided into two main classes—explosive and incendiary bombs. The explosive ones are divided again into those dropped with no initial velocity, and those propelled with high initial velocity in somewhat the same way as a bullet is propelled from a gun. The first kind of explosive bomb is more used than the second, and explodes upon hitting the ground. In an article on the "Zeppelin Question," by Mr. Prade, published in translation in the Scientific American for April 3, 1915, it is stated that nowhere have bombs been found weighing more than 49 kilos (108 pounds). "This was the weight," says Mr. Prade, "of the bomb found intact at Yarmouth. . . . Large naval dirigibles which appeared over the English coast certainly had not 1,000 kilos (2,204 pounds) of explosives on board, which is proved by the fact that they did not throw that number, as they would hardly have returned with any unthrown." From this Mr. Prade proves that the bombs do not weigh more than 50 kilos at most, and that each Zeppelin carried at the most 20 bombs.

Coal Tar of Immense Value.

Mauve, that delicate tint of the light-colored violet—and its chance discovery in aniline by Sir William Perkin, laid the foundation of one of the greatest industries in the United States today—the utilization of coal tar, a by-product of the manufacture of illuminating gas. Once almost a dead waste, now it is worth millions and millions.

"This would be a cold, dreary world," says Robert E. Livingston, editor of Gas Logic, "without coal tar," which may be the gasman's illuminating way of putting it, but true, nevertheless.

UNCLE SAM'S HOT SPRINGS

BATH HOUSE ROW

CARLSBAD? Well, not this year, possibly; not next year either, as it looks now. No, nor Baden Baden nor any other of the famous European "spas." But there is still the Arkansas Hot Springs—now owned by Uncle Sam—and because of the European situation it's likely to have a big boom, a correspondent of the Philadelphia Record writes.

The water is there, a million gallons a day, so pure that chemical analysis shows but a faint trace of mineral, and the 42 springs are all hot. Not a drop of this water is sold. From the various springs one may drink it by the cup and carry it away by the gallon. In the bathhouses one may soak in it by the hour, at a cost within the reach of every purse.

This statement is made because there are 24 private bathhouses, and the large government bathhouse for the indigent. In the private bathhouses, which cost from $20,000 to $200,000, the government regulates the price, making allowance for the sum invested, the cost of maintenance, etc. The average price for a course of 21 baths is around eight dollars, and then there is the fee for attendants, also regulated by the government.

Everything is under government control—the water, the bathhouses, the attendants and the physicians. Many of the bathhouses are on government property, that part of the reservation facing Central avenue, and known as "Bathhouse row." The occupants of these plots have no leases and pay no ground rent. They are there because the government allows them there, and can be closed up in ten minutes if their behavior is not all it should be. The attendants are all negroes, and none of them can get a job in a bathhouse without his or her little certificate bearing the signature of Doctor Parks, representing the department of the interior.

Physicians Must Qualify. The physicians, as the result of some high-handed robbery by quacks in the old "wide-open" days when Hot Springs was about as wicked a spot as could be found on the map, have to qualify before a federal medical board before they are allowed to prescribe the waters and baths. Any patient being treated by a physician who has not so qualified will not be received at any of the bathhouses, for the bathhouse so offending could no longer "rent" water from Uncle Sam.

This term may seem a trifle odd to one not knowing the conditions at Hot Springs, but it exactly describes the situation. The bathhouse owner rents the water, paying $60 per annum for the water for each tub in his bathhouse. This water belongs to the government, and is under government supervision in the pipes, in the tubs and until it passes out through the sewer connections.

A larger sum, to be estimated only through the imagination, in fact, could be realized if the government would allow the waters to be exploited commercially. Vast sums have been offered for the bottling and shipping privileges, and while the water doubtless could be sent to the ends of the earth in perfect condition, Uncle Sam will not allow any such experiments.

There are in the valley half a dozen springs, privately owned, whose waters are known throughout the country. One of these has a great reputation as a cure for Bright's disease. Yet Uncle Sam will not allow them even to use labels which might mislead people into believing that they were a part of the group of wonder-working springs that the government guarantees as being par excellence. They are the flow of outlying springs not considered of value at the time the main group was taken over, and probably are worth no more today, from a medical viewpoint, than they were at that time.

Baths for the Indigent. If seekers after health who journey to the springs have not the wherewithal to pay the modest fees in effect at the private bathing places, Uncle Sam bids them welcome at his bathing house on the hill. After the formality of certifying that they own no property, and are possessed of less than twenty-five dollars in cash, the government bathhouse is open to them. Here 8,690 persons were cared for last year, taking a total of 125,988 baths at Uncle Sam's expense. The majority of these persons had no medical attention whatever, except the ordinary advice given by the government employees. Yet Doctor Parks states that 90 per cent of these people left Hot Springs cured of their afflictions, which in the majority of cases were rheumatism in its various forms.

It naturally is to be supposed that out of this large number of people there were a few who were not entitled to partake of Uncle Sam's bounty. It should be expected that among the 100,000 annual visitors to the resort there would be many with the saving instinct. The employees of the bathhouse, for instance, say they never could have believed there were so many people in the world with only $24 if they had not heard the statements made under oath.

Uncle Sam, however, is jealous of this water, and while he gives it freely, he hates to have it taken away from him under false pretenses. If at any time a case looks suspicious, he thinks nothing of shipping an inspector half way across the continent to secure the facts. Only last winter the conversation of a man at his modest boarding house did not chime harmoniously with his appearance in the "water line" at the government bathhouse. An inspector was sent up into Michigan, and visited the little town from which the man had registered. When he returned he announced that the "indigent" owned four farms in his home county, and had mortgages on most of the others. It cost that man nearly one thousand dollars for the baths he had taken, and only his old soldier record saved him from having a trip to a federal penitentiary in addition.

The record of Hot Springs as a fountain of youth is a long and honorable one, yet the strange part of it all is that no one has ever been able to discover what is the property of the waters that effects the cures.

Old Traditions of the Springs.

Away back in the early days, according to traditions, which are connected with all places of this kind, the Indians ascribed the power to Manitou, the Great Father. They said that when the war chief of a great tribe lay wounded in the shadow of the Ozark hills, the Great Father took pity on him, opened up the mountain and poured the healing waters on his wounds. Since that time the waters have worked similar wonders for all. A somewhat similar story is told of Hot Springs, Va., though that is one of discovery and not of miracle working. According to this yarn an Indian pursued by his foemen fell exhausted into the springs. He lay there for a while, and the waters so revived him that he scrambled nimbly up the side of a perpendicular cliff, and thus eluded his foes. Both of these are pretty tales, yet probably carry a lower percentage of truth than the story of "horse sense" attributed to Mount Clemens, Mich.—that a broken-down, swollen-kneed, rheumatic old plug was turned out in a pasture to find for himself, immediately immersed himself to his withers in a warm bog and in a week grew four new legs.

Now there is a plan, backed by eastern capital, to erect at Hot Springs the largest sanitarium in the world. Already options have been secured on ten acres of property lying in the heart of the city nearly opposite the reservation. The option price is $2,000,000 and the project is said to have $8,000,000 of capital behind it.

GALLANT SEA CAPTAIN

BRITISH NAVY PROUD OF WORK OF LIEUTENANT COCHRANE.

His Exploits With Small Ship, Poorly Armed, Are Classed With the Most Brilliant Annals of Warfare on the Ocean.

A recent writer, Mr. J. J. Edgar, has retold the almost incredible exploits of the Speedy, the first command of young Lieutenant Cochrane, afterwards Admiral Lord Dundonald, inventor, fighter and strategist. The little vessel was absurdly small and ill-equipped; an over-manned and underarmed craft of 158 tons, carrying ninety men and fourteen four-pounders. Nevertheless, she soon became so troublesome to the enemy that a Spanish frigate was especially dispatched to hunt her down. But young Cochrane, foreseeing trouble, had purposely shipped a Danish quartermaster; and instead of avoiding his formidable foe, he dressed the Dane in his own uniform, disguised the Speedy, with the aid of paint and canvas, as a Danish brig, and ran up the quarantine flag. A few questions were asked, to which an unmistakably genuine Dane, apparently the captain, replied; and the hoodwinked enemy continued peacefully on her course.

Some months later, however, they met again, and an encounter could not be avoided. The action that followed was unique in naval history. The Speedy made no effort to escape. Instead, she boldly attacked. She had at the time only fifty-four men, and her scant crew and fourteen four-pounders were opposed to the thirty-two heavy guns and 319 men of her six hundred-ton opponent, the frigate El Gamo. Coming swiftly to close quarters, she ran in under the frigate's broadside, which hurtled harmlessly above her, while every shot from her own guns told. A moment later the vessels touched, and Cochrane, at the head of his crew, actually boarded and carried the frigate, which struck her flag after the first rush.

Between these two exploits the Speedy visited Valletta, and Cochrane enjoyed a little adventure ashore. A fancy-dress subscription ball was being given, under the patronage of some French Royalist officers, and this he attended, selecting for his costume the ordinary dress of a British common sailor. A Frenchman, mistaking him for a genuine Jack-tar of dubious sobriety who was intruding among his betters, ordered him out. He refused to go. The Frenchman collared him; he knocked the Frenchman down, and the next day they fought a duel on the sands. Cochrane received a ball through the trousers and the Frenchman one through the leg, after which they parted gayly with expressions of mutual esteem.

The Speedy's career ended at last in capture; but although she surrendered to one vessel, the French battleship Deseaix, she had been gallantly fighting against several at once. The chivalrous French captain declined to accept Cochrane's sword, saying he could not "deprive of his sword an officer who had so many hours struggled against impossibilities."

The Pallas, Cochrane's first really adequate ship, did not achieve so many near-impossibilities as the little Speedy; but her return to Plymouth after her first cruise was marked by a uniquely brilliant touch. She had taken rich prizes. Among the booty were some wonderful great golden candlesticks from Mexico. They were of superb size and workmanship, and designed for ecclesiastical use; but Cochrane found them equally adapted to enhance a naval triumph. When, at sound of the signal gun, the inhabitants of Plymouth flocked to the wharves, to behold the Pallas sweep nobly to her anchorage, they were dazzled and amazed to see her tall masts aglitter in the sunshine as if tipped with living flame. To each mast was proudly affixed a five-foot golden candlestick!—Youth's Companion.

Indian as a Waiter.

You can find all kinds of people on Broadway, says the New York Tribune. There is a full-blooded Cheyenne Indian who is a waiter in one of the chop suey restaurants in Long-acre square. He wandered here from the Western plains, scene of his early youth, to seek fame and fortune in the metropolis as a singer of Indian melodies, but with syncopated music anchored to the boards the red man hasn't a ghost of a chance. Now he languishes as a waiter in a Chinese restaurant, hoping in his heart for the day when writers of Yiddish and Irish melodies will again feel the spirit of the Sioux, Cherokee or Chippewa descending upon them. Even the "fads and fashions" beauty cabaret, interpreters par excellence of present-day dances and music, cannot arouse his interest. But, then, he is only a humble Indian waiter, although, perhaps, the only one of his kind along Broadway.

College Gets Precious Memento.

Allegheny college, at Meadville, Pa., has received from Doctor Haskins of Boston the die which was used in the original seal of the college nearly 100 years ago. Doctor Haskins discovered the die among the records of his father, who was a professor in the college from 1874 to 1886. This die was probably made in Boston in 1822 or 1823. It was in constant use until the early sixties, when it disappeared.

CRUISING for ALASKAN BIRDS.

STUCK IN THE ICE OFF BARROW

AN INTERESTING account of the birds observed during a trip in Alaska has been published by the Smithsonian institution, as reported by F. Seymour Hersey, who was in the field for A. C. Bent, collecting data and photographs for the completion of the "Life Histories of North American Birds."

Leaving Seattle on the revenue cutter Bear, the party steamed northward through the "inside passage," where the scenery was delightful all the way to Ketchikan. From that point the Bear passed through Dixon's entrance and headed for Unalaska. As they neared Unimak pass various members of the tubinares, or tube-nosed birds, were noticed, together with sooty shearwaters, petrels and albatrosses. As they approached the pass the number of birds increased to a point almost beyond belief. As far as the eye could see masses of birds were bedded on the water; murres and puffins were everywhere. "It was utterly impossible to form any definite estimate of the number of birds seen," says the author; "hundreds of thousands does not exaggerate their abundance." The ship seems to have literally plowed its way through them. The Bear lay at Unalaska three days, during which time Mr. Hersey collected a number of species peculiar to that locality.

After touching at St. George and St. Paul islands, they proceeded on to Nome, which port the ship did not actually reach on account of the ice, but anchored out in the stream and sent the mail ashore by dog teams.

To the Yukon in Open Boat.

At St. Michael Mr. Hersey left the Bear and made arrangements with the owner of a small open power boat to carry him and his outfit to the mouth of the Yukon river. They went through the so-called "canal" between St. Michael island and the mainland, but encountered a severe storm which forced them to land and encamp for three days. Birds were plentiful in the neighborhood of the camp and Mr. Hersey employed the time to good advantage, securing many specimens of eggs.

Proceeding onward, they arrived at the mouth of the Yukon and established their headquarters at the wireless station, eight miles from the native village of Kotlik. The country all around is reported very flat, making a safe feeding ground for the little brown cranes and geese, since it was impossible to approach them unobserved. In describing it, Mr. Hersey says: "So bare and level is the country that a photograph of the river, taken from the shore, shows the opposite bank as nothing but a straight line, such as might be made across the print with a ruler and a coarse stub pen." Here the author remained during the greater part of the breeding season. He found pintails and several species of shorebirds breeding abundantly; gulls, terns and jaegers common, and redpolls, Alaska yellow wagtails, willow ptarmigan and Alaska longspurs also well represented in this region.

Delayed in the Ice Off Barrow.

Later in the summer he returned to Nome and again embarked on the Bear, which stopped at many points along the coast, among which were Golovin bay, Cape Prince of Wales, Cape Dyer, Point Franklin and Barrow. Before reaching Barrow they encountered considerable ice and were delayed ten days en route. At Barrow, the northernmost point of this trip, the ice conditions were so bad they only remained long enough to land the mail and take aboard several men who had been caught in the ice the previous season and obliged to winter at Barrow. Among the newcomers was W. S. Brooks of the Polar Bear party, who had been collecting for the Museum of Comparative Zoology.

As soon as the ship was out of the ice her course was changed to west and an effort was made to reach Wrangel island, where the shipwrecked crew of the Karluk was known to have wintered, but after trying for ten days in fog, snow and general bad weather, they gave it up and put back to Nome for coal, stopping at several places on the way. Mr. Hersey left the Bear at Nome and took passage on the steamship Victoria to Seattle.

It is interesting to note the fact that Mr. Hersey found the Aleutian tern, which has always been scarce and which was recently thought to be extinct. Altogether he encountered about one hundred of them and collected several specimens. This bird is larger and much darker than the common Arctic tern and has a peculiar white forehead.

Another rare bird mentioned is Fisher's petrel, once represented in museum collections by a single specimen, and now by only three or four. Although they have been observed frequently, they are hard to collect and their nesting places are not known.

The Aleutian sparrow is one of the most interesting birds seen, being one of the twenty or more varieties of this family that cover the United States from east to west, occurring in British America and Alaska as well. In the islands of Alaska it reaches its greatest development, being very much larger than the ordinary North American sparrow and sometimes as large as a catbird.

Even the barn swallow was seen on the trip; this bird is a true migratory bird, traveling from this point as far south as Argentina and Chile in the winter months.

ENGLISH CORPORAL A SLEUTH

Officer Attended Meeting of Men Who Were Trying to Evade Conscription.

Corporal Ayres of the Queen's West Surrey regiment described at the Reigate military tribunal how he managed to gain admission to a private meeting held in a large house in a fashionable portion of the town, at which there were present a number of young men. It had come to his knowledge, the corporal added, that meetings were held for the deliberate purpose of obstructing the military service act. The young men and the host quoted Scripture to prove that it was against the will of Christ to take up arms, and he cited Scripture to prove the contrary. He came away thoroughly convinced that the gathering was for the purpose of assisting the young men to get out of doing military service.

A young man of twenty-four, a grocer's assistant, the applicant for exemption on conscientious grounds, declined to say if the meeting, which he had attended, was held for the purpose of assisting people to formulate claims for exemption.

The mayor asked: "You say you are a disciple of Jesus Christ, and yet you will not tell the truth?" "If you accuse me of telling a lie I refuse to argue with you," the applicant replied.

Exemption was refused. The mayor remarked that the young man was evidently suffering from a disordered mind.—London Telegraph.

Clever Beggars.

Crust throwers, those strangely clever beggars who carry dry bread, throw it into the streets at the psychological moment and hurl themselves on it with wild cries, object, sympathy and alms, have rivals in the soap eaters, who are said to ruin their health by the diet for the purpose of gaining sympathy and undeserved charitable assistance. Two soap eaters recently arrested in New York were asked what ailed them and each showed forth a feebly held card, one reading, "A Victim of Tuberculosis" and the other, "Help—Deaf, Dumb and Starving." Their pockets were well lined with small silver coins.

Conveniences for Travelers.

In order to keep its patrons advised of the whereabouts of the street cars they may be awaiting, the Durham (N. C.) Traction company has arranged for the erection of large clock faces at street intersections. Instead of hours and minutes being displayed, as on the ordinary clock, the hands will follow the car on its trips, showing the prospective passenger what his approximate wait will be.

HAROLD SOMERS, 180 DeKalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

He Meant Business.

Mrs. Bennett arrived at the conclusion that the attachment of Teddy Nolan, the policeman, for her cook must be investigated lest it prove disastrous to domestic discipline.

One morning she took Annie, the cook, to task regarding the matter. Annie admitted his attentions.

"Do you think he means business, Annie?" asked Mrs. Bennett.

"Yes, mum, Oi t'ink so," replied Annie. "Anyhow, he's begun to complain about my cookin', mum."

A Nightmare.

"Darling," says the fond wife, "I dreamed last night that you gave me a diamond necklace for Christmas."

"You did?"

"Yes, and I woke up laughing like a child."

"Huh. If I'd dreamed that I gave you a diamond necklace I'd have wakened the whole neighborhood with my groans."

Humane Father Tells Suitor He Is Not Willing to Dispose of Daughter in Sections.

"Mr. Stonerfellow," said the young man with the high collar and noisy tie, "I—er—called to ask for the hand of your daughter in marriage, and—"

"What!" interrupted the stern parent, "did I understand you to say you wanted the hand of my daughter for matrimonial purposes?"

"That is what I said, sir," replied the love-lorn youngster.

"Well," continued the humane father, "I don't care to dispose of her in sections—besides I fail to see what particular use her hand would be to you anyway; but if you are willing to take the entire girl, why, I haven't any objections."

Rather Poor Showing.

"I understand Mr. Dubwaite has announced for another office."

"He seems determined to keep running until he gets one."

"Yes, but Mrs. Dubwaite says she is out of patience."

Why so?"

"She says a man who has been running for office as long and as hard as Mr. Dubwaite has ought to have something more to show for it than a pile of unpaid printing bills."

Not at All Surprising.

"Since the Twobble girls returned from a finishing school they find the society of Mr. Twobble rather irksome."

"He's not polished enough for them, eh?"

"That's about the situation. It seems that while he was learning the coal business from A to Z he failed to acquire a superficial knowledge of French and a taste for grand opera."

Must Be Old.

"How old would you say he is?"

"About seventy."

"Don't be ridiculous. He can't be a day over thirty-five."

"He certainly is. No woman could tame a man as well as he is tamed unless she had at least 50 years to do it in."

'Twas Ever Thus.

"How about that wedding check your father-in-law gave you?" asked the friend. "Was it good?"

"Certainly," replied the benedict. "It's the unexpected that happens, you know."

CALOMEL SELDOM SOLD HERE NOW

Nasty drug salivates, makes you sick and you lose a day's work.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place. "Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs 50 cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.—Adv.

Good in Military Training.

I heard America's ablest living soldier, Gen. Leonard Wood, say the other evening that enforced military training would reduce the number of murders in the United States. "Girard" remarks in the Philadelphia Ledger.

We Americans lead the world in taking human life. We kill every year, in proportion to population, just ten times as many men and women as are slain in Switzerland.

Both countries are republics. In Switzerland there is military organization for all men, but in our country we obligingly permit somebody else to do our soldiering while we do the murdering ourselves.

We have more laws than any other people, but we break nearly all of them as deliberately as if they were merely the ten commandments. General Wood is probably right in thinking that lack of real discipline accounts for 10,000 American murders in a year.

RESINOL SPEEDILY HEALS ITCHING, BURNING SKINS

Usually resinol ointment, with resinol soap, stops itching at once, quickly and easily heals distressing cases of eczema, rash, ringworm, tetter or similar tormenting skin or scalp eruptions, and clears away pimples, redness, roughness and dandruff, when other treatments have proven useless.

Physicians have prescribed resinol for twenty years, while thousands whose skins have been healed say, "What resinol did for us it will do for you." Try it! All druggists sell resinol soap and resinol ointment.—Adv.

New Thumb Grown on Man.

George Merrell, president of the Wristle Perfume and Soap Manufacturing company of Chicago, will be able to continue his hobby of piano playing, as Dr. Otto Bryning of St. Mary's hospital, Jamaica, Queens, has succeeded in growing half an inch on Mr. Merrell's thumb, which was amputated in a motor car mishap near Jamaica recently.

By stimulating the formation of granulations on the stump, Doctor Bryning accomplished the task.—New York Dispatch to Philadelphia Bulletin.

MUST BE READY TO SUCCEED

Congratulated on Muniton Work Charles M. Schwab Tells Amusing Yarn About Jake.

Charles M. Schwab, congratulated on his muniton work, said in Loretto: "To succeed in muniton work or in anything else you must be ready—as ready as Jake."

"Jake and Joe were brothers, and they were both very hard up. One day a man called at their rooms and asked for Jake—and Joe, thinking the visitor was a dun, said:

"I'm afraid you can't see Jake."

"Oh, I must see him," said the caller, "without fail."

"I'm sorry," said Joe, "but Jake left town yesterday."

"Pshaw," said the visitor, "that's too bad. I wanted to pay him $100 I owe him, and I'm going abroad today."

"Oh," said Joe, "that's easy. Jake came back this morning."—Washington Star.

Compromise Proposed.

"You owe me forty thousand dollars which you say you can't pay," announced the financier. "Why don't you marry that eldest Knowall girl; she's worth twice that amount."

"No, I can't do that; but you might marry her yourself and pay me the difference," replied the young Adonis.—Judge.

A Straight Tip.

"Real estate is about the only safe investment nowadays," said the broker.

"Oh, I don't know," replied the banker. "There are so many unscrupulous men who want the earth to even make that a safe investment."

Ladies, Gentlemen and Musicians.

"Well, landlord, how's business nowadays?"

"Oh, purty good, purty good. Had a whole passel o' people register yistday. They was five gentlemen, three ladies and four musicians."—Musical America.

Efficiency.

"Is your wife a believer in efficiency?"

"Yes, indeed; she always reads the last chapter of a novel first and you've no idea how many books this method saves her the trouble of wading through."

PROLIFIC REPRODUCERS.

"Charity covers a multitude of sins." "Don't let that worry you. A lot more will spring up."

Slight Mistake.

"Get my kit quick," boomed the doctor. "Some fellow telephones in a dying voice that he can't live without me."

"Just a moment," interposed his wife. "That call is for daughter, dear."

Discernment.

"I don't think women have a sense of humor," said the man with opinions.

"Most of us," replied Miss Cayenne, "have the very highest sense of humor. We know when not to laugh."

Just So.

"What do you think? Here's young Flitters got so confused when he went after a marriage license that he got a dog license instead."

"Merely natural instinct. Told you it was a case of puppy love."

In Good Odor.

"They are certainly using all kinds of devices to save time and effort." "Yes, I was in an office today where they were sending all sorts of papers about the building in aromatic tubes."

A Misnomer.

"Why do you object to the way I speak of the way the young man attires himself who calls on me, pa?" "Well, when he once sits down I don't know that it is correct to allude in any way to his general getup."

Natural Query.

"There are some side dishes I am very fond of, but which we never get at our boarding house. We never have tongue there."

"No women boarders at all?"

A Student.

"Did you ever study so hard you couldn't sleep?"

"I have," replied Uncle Hayfoot. "I've stayed up all night many a time learnin' new dances."

Mean Retort.

"The man who marries me must do so for my inner qualities."

"Don't be worried, dear. Nobody is going to take you at your face value."

Backache? Run Down? Tired? Clean the Kidneys with Hot Water and "Anuric"

When run-down after a hard winter—when life indoors has brought about a stagnant condition in the circulation—most everyone is filled with uric acid—especially is this so of people past middle age. This uric acid in the blood often causes rheumatism, lumbago, swelling of hands or feet, or a bag-like condition under the eyes. Backache, frequent urination or the pains and stiffness of the joints are also often noticed. Dr. Pierce says that everyone should have a good sweat every day—should drink plenty of pure water and exercise in the open air as much as possible. This helps to throw out the poisonous uric acid thru the skin and the "water." But for such persons as are past middle age it's often impossible to do this and lime salts are deposited in the arteries, veins and joints, causing all kinds of distressing conditions. An antidote for this uric acid poison is to take hot water before meals and "Anuric." Ask your druggist for Doctor Pierce's "Anuric," or send Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., a dollar bill for a full treatment, or ten cents for a trial package. "Anuric" is a recent scientific discovery by Dr. Pierce. "Anuric" drives the uric acid out of your body. It is a uric acid solvent so effective that it eliminates these poisons, cleanses the system, allows your over-worked kidneys to resume their normal functions, and just a few days' treatment with "Anuric" will convince you because it brings lasting relief to your painful, aching rheumatic joints—no more backache or dizzy spells. Try it now and be convinced!

BAD LUCK ON PRIMARY DAY

Man Runs Thirteenth in List of 41 Candidates, Then Other Things Happen.

Edward J. Hecker, printer and politician of Irvington, is now entertaining the idea that he may be unlucky. In fact, according to his own calculations, he has every right to believe that primaries are not the kind of days to bring luck to certain residents of Irvington.

When the race was on for the primaries, Hecker's name was placed in the list of aspiring representatives, and while Mr. Hecker made no active canvass, he relied on the belief that he was to be one of the "select." Just how and why he was crowded out of his seat is another story, but Hecker believes it was an omen of bad luck when he ran thirteenth among 41 candidates, while there were only ten to be nominated.

First in the list of bad luck incidents appears the number "13" in the political race; second, an unfriendly wind destroyed a sign over his Irvington print shop and the sign was valued at $50; third, a Gordon foot press was practically ruined while being operated by a helper in Hecker's office and the press was valued at $300; and last, but not least, a typographical error in some printing work, in which the numerals 1915 appeared instead of 1916, caused Hecker to lose $25 on a printing job. And each of the bad-luck incidents took place on primary day!—Indianapolis News.

Recent Explorations in Brazil.

Mr. Roosevelt has communicated to the American and the Royal Geographical societies information received by him from Brazil concerning recent explorations in the drainage basin of the Rio Theodoro, the scene of his own explorations. An expedition was sent out about a year ago, under Lieutenant de Souza, to explore the Rio Ananas, or Pineapple river, which now proves to be identical with the Cardoso, of Roosevelt's maps, emptying into the Theodoro in 10 degrees 58 minutes S. It is one of the headwater branches of the Theodoro, but not the major tributary that it had been thought to be. The expedition was a disastrous one. After suffering from shortness of food and illness, the party was attacked by Indians, and the leader was drowned after being wounded with arrows. The party became scattered, and apparently only three of the ten comrades who had started with de Souza, finally reached the Duvida, and ultimately got back to civilization.—Scientific American.

To keep clean and healthy take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate liver, bowels and stomach.

Obliging.

At a certain church in a Jersey town it is the invariable custom of the clergyman to kiss the bride after the ceremony. A young woman who was about to be married in the church did not relish the prospect and instructed her prospective husband to tell the clergyman that she did not wish him to kiss her. The bridegroom obeyed the instructions given.

"Well, Harry," said the young woman when he appeared, "did you tell the minister that I did not wish him to kiss me?"

"Yes."

"And what did he say?"

"He said that in that case he would charge only half the usual fee."
